About me

Early on, I was interested in the first personal computers of my time and wrote programs for them. I turned my hobby into a profession.

After training as a data processing specialist, I gained more than 30 years of experience in software development. The first 8 years as an organizational programmer for online computer-aided sales (CAS) and customer relationship management (CRM) systems. Afterwards 7 years as Senior Consultant CRM on customer projects for the introduction of standardized sales information and support systems. This was followed by 16 years in quality and project management at Germany's largest software company.

I would like to use the last years of my professional career to help smaller service teams. To this end, I developed an information and support system for service technicians with Microsoft 365. I hope I can help many people with it.

Content

I publish my websites as a private person. It is a private online offer and is currently only aimed at companies based in Germany.

I have created the pages with the utmost care. However, the information is non-binding and for informational purposes only.
